The Mallet

Editorial

November 2016

Can I firstly, on behalf of Mallet readers everywhere, offer congratulations to our new RWM Bro. George McGrandles and all his office bearers and wish them well for the coming year. For the new RWM in particular, I can only give this well worn piece of advice, "don't blink".

Secondly, I'd also like to thank our IPM, Ian Blair for his labours over the preceding twelve months.

I hope that at this, the time of Installation, not only the Office Bearers of the Lodge, but also the ordinary brethren of the Lodge can treat this moment as a time of renewal. The obligations that we all took do not diminish with time. If you've found yourself drifting away from the Lodge why not take this opportunity to dust of the old apron and come amongst us once again.

Similarly, if you see someone coming into the Lodge be it a visitor or someone who you just haven't seen for a few, or possibly more, meetings, get on over to them and offer them a hand of friendship.

I think I can speak for everyone who attended our Installation on Saturday the 26th of November in saying what a great day it turned out to be. The three installing Masters, [REDACTED], Bro. James Renfrew PM and Bro. Thomas Mulholland PM are all to be congratulated for doing such a fine job us throughout the ceremony of installation.

Downstairs, again all the 'toast' speakers should be thanked for the brevity of their speeches before our 'keynote' speaker, Bro. Willie Henderson, Known as Wee Willie, which was hardly the most inventive nickname as he stood just 5ft 4ins, The former Rangers and Scotland player had the entire audience in raptures with his stories about his football career.

The close of the 'official' part of the day saw Lodge Union and Crown maintain its usual low standard of singers, led off as tradition dictates, by our brand spanking new RWM Bro. George and his Smartphone??

Merry Christmas to all our readers

Hugh Cattigan PM Ed.

Christmas Parcels

Some of you may have noticed, but, Christmas isn't too far away and we will soon be distributing parcels on behalf of the Lodge. This can be quite a considerable task both to coordinate and fund and any donations towards this very worthwhile cause would be much appreciated.

Manpower is always a major factor and the more brethren the better for our Worthy Almoner (Bro Alex White) who can always find work for any brother either willing to pick up or deliver these parcels. If you can help, please contact Bro. Alex.

The parcels are to be picked up at the premises of Lodge Inchinnan No. 1405 on Sunday the 11th December 2016 between 11:00am and 12:00 noon and thereafter brought to the Lodge in Barrhead for distribution.

Bud Gauld Plate

At the Installation harmony on Saturday 26th November, as the various toasts and replies drew to a close, the Brethren held their breath as Bro Bud Gauld stood up to announce who would be the latest winner of the award, named in his honour.

Bro Bud gave a short background as to the history of this award and explained that there are many things which benefit us all within the Lodge but that are often happening and being done behind the scenes. The Lodge members were delighted to hear that Bro. Ronnie McIsaac our newly installed WJW was to be the latest recipient of the Bud Gauld Plate for outstanding service to Lodge Union & Crown.

A very worthy winner of this unique award. An unusually quiet and reserved Bro. Ronnie thanked the Lodge for the award as he accepted the 'Plate' from Bro. Bud. An acceptance that was warmly received by all those in attendance.

RENFREWSHIRE EAST - JANUARY 2016 INSTALLATION

Saturday	14 th January	1:59pm	Lodge St Conval Giffnock No. 1359
----------	--------------------------	--------	-----------------------------------

Glaswegian father rings his daughter in London at Christmas to tell her he's divorcing her mother.

The shocked daughter replies: "What! You can't do that. I'm coming right up."

Father turns to his wife and says: "Sorted. She's coming home for Christmas and paying her own way."

A Christmas Story

It was a chilly winter night in December and time for our annual trip to George Square to see the Christmas lights. This year we had our first, new baby girl, to share the sights and sounds with and were looking forward to sharing it with her. I had worked retail for many years, so to me the holidays did not mean much except extra work... put the decorations up for this holiday, take them down and redecorate for the next. In addition, anyone who has worked retail can tell you about not only the hustle and bustle with customers and stocking shelves, but about the extra long hours that come with the job or late hours. For this reason, I dreaded them and they seemed like any other day.

This particular year though, somehow things would be changing about my view of Christmas and little did I know that our traditional visit to the Christmas lights would turn out to be a reminder of what the season truly means.

After bundling everyone up and packing the diaper bag and stroller in the car, I made sure the camera was full to take lots of pictures to remember our daughter's first Christmas. The Kingston Bridge is notorious for traffic in the evenings, but this night it was fairly light and before we knew it we were in the streets surrounding the square.

It was a wonderful night with my daughter getting her picture taken on Santa's lap, drinking hot chocolate and strolling through the lights filled with animated scenes. I was very much there, but as the evening winded down, my mind was beginning to wander about work the next day. We listened to the music, the children laughing and watched our own daughter's eyes light up every time she saw the lights on a tree or watched one of the musical moving scenes.

We came to the Nativity scene, which I always take a few extra minutes to enjoy and say a little prayer in my head giving thanks for the miracle of the season and we all just stood there for a while. No sooner did we leave; it was the end of our tour and time to get back in the car and head home. To avoid the normal traffic of getting on the motorway, I drove through the streets of the Gorbals and Pollokshaws. There are really beautiful old homes out there in some of the area, so we might have even got to see some house lights.

As I turned onto a street, I saw a homeless man walking on the street. I do not know what happened in those moments, because all I remember was thinking I had an extra blanket I always carried in the car and it was extremely cold outside. Suddenly I pulled my Ford Escort over to the side of the street and my partner looked at me as if I was crazy and was really getting out of the car to take the homeless man a blanket? Yes,

I was and I got out, opened the hatchback and I pulled out my "extra", not being used, clean blanket and slowly walked toward the homeless man.

As I cautiously approached him, he just kept pushing his shopping cart filled with what few belongings he had.

"Excuse me... hello", I called out to him. He kept walking and I followed and tried to call him again. "Excuse me, Mr...", I called out and he finally turned around.

For some reason I was no longer nervous and I remember looking into to his eyes when he said, "you talking to me?" He was unkempt and his skin looked leathered, as if he had been in the sun all of his life. As I took a few steps closer, I saw his basket filled with a piece of cardboard, some clothes with holes and few dirty blankets. Nonetheless, I just had a gut feeling he was suppose to get this blanket tonight and I was the one who was going to give it to him.

I put the blanket across both my arms and reached it out to him. "Here this is for you," I said. "But I already have some blankets", he said. "This is a clean blanket, it is for you, and I want you to have it." "For me?" he asked. "For you, for Christmas", it blurted out of my mouth and I warmly smiled. "You're giving this to me for Christmas", he asked? "Yes, this is for you", I replied and reached it out even further. When he took the blanket from my hands, I felt the touch of his hands on mine and he looked up and said kindly, "thank you". Again I looked at him with a smile and I said Merry Christmas. He replied, "Merry Christmas and God bless you." As I got ready to turn away, I answered back "God bless you too."

Then, I began walking back to my car and I climbed in. Just before we were ready to go I had looked back at him through my rear view mirror. In the reflection, I saw the homeless man, standing there alone, in the cold, on the street and he was holding the blanket I had just given him across his arms, just as I had presented it to him, up to the sky. He was praying, and I looked out the window, back at him, seeing a sky filled with stars, and watched him give thanks to the Lord. I got a tear in my eye and suddenly, the true spirit of Christmas filled my heart and soul. "This is what Christmas is truly about" I said silently to myself as I gently cried.

That very evening, that very moment, I had yearned for all my life, when I would feel the true spirit of Christmas had just touched me and overflowed into my soul. In giving that night, I received the greatest gift and those memories still live on in my heart today. The homeless man had nothing but what he carried in his cart, but he had God and was truly richer than anyone on the outside looking in could see. That night, the homeless man touched my heart and my life in a special way. Every Christmas season, I think of him and that beautiful experience that was a turning point in my life. I still get a tear in my eye every time I remember that night and what I learned from the homeless I gave that blanket to that night.

With a glad heart and good grace I gladly intimate that, as I submit this report, NO bereavements, with regards to Brethren and the Ladies of the Lodge have been notified to myself since my last report.

WORLD AT WAR 1914 – 1918

(November 1916)

HMHS Britannic was the third of the White Star Line's Olympic class of vessels. She was the sister ship of RMS Olympic and RMS Titanic, and was intended to enter service as a transatlantic passenger liner.

Britannic was launched just before the start of the First World War and was laid up at her builders, Harland and Wolff, in Belfast for many months before being put to use as a hospital ship in 1915. She was shaken by an explosion, caused by an underwater mine, in the Kea Channel off the Greek island of Kea on the morning of 21 November 1916, and sank 55 minutes later, killing 30 people.

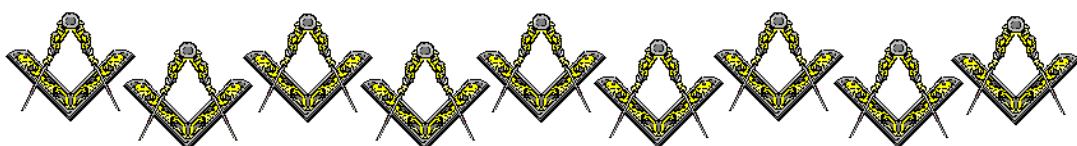

There were 1,065 people on board; the 1,035 survivors were rescued from the water and lifeboats. Britannic was the largest ship lost in the First World War. The vessel is also currently the largest passenger ship on the sea floor (Following the loss of Titanic and the subsequent inquiries, several design changes were made to the remaining Olympic-class liners. With Britannic, these changes were made before launching. (Olympic was refitted on her return to Harland and Wolff.) The main changes included the increase of the ships beam by two feet to ninety four feet to allow for a double hull along the engine and boiler rooms and raising six out of the 15 watertight bulkheads up to B Deck).

The 28th November saw the first bombing of central London by a fixed-wing aircraft when a German biplane dropped six bombs near Victoria station.¹

Given the 'end' date of the 18th November 1916, the Battle of the Somme had commenced on the 1st July 1916 and is notable for the importance of air power and the first use of the tank.

At the end of the battle, British and French forces had penetrated 10 km (6 mi) into German-occupied territory, taking more ground than in any of their offensives since the Battle of the Marne in 1914. The Anglo-French armies failed to capture Péronne and halted 5 km (3 mi) from Bapaume, where the German armies would maintain their positions over the winter. Debate continues over the necessity, significance and effect of the battle. David Frum opined that a century later, "the Somme' remains the most harrowing place-name" in the history of the British Commonwealth.

The end of the battle saw the combined deaths for both sides of the conflict coming to nearly 311,486 and while the figures for casualties vary (due to the different criteria used by all the forces involved) even the lowest figures available would put the casualties at nearly 1,200,000

RWM's Colin McLardy & Stephen Allan

At the Regular Meeting of the Lodge, held on Tuesday 2nd November, the following Bro. GEORGE McGRANDLES received a fine Mark Ceremonial, conferred by Bro Colin Hamilton IPM, and his hand picked team of degree workers, in what is always a good mix of the serious and the light-hearted. Bro Colin can be rightly proud of the degree under his control, where all involved are to be congratulated.

Opened: 7-30pm Lodge Closed: 9-35pm Attendance: 70

At the Regular meeting held on Saturday 20th November, the Temple celebrated the centenary of the laying of its foundation stone and a report of this day is given elsewhere in this issue of the Mallet.

Opened: 11:30am Lodge Closed: 3-23pm Attendance: 175

At the Installation Meeting held on Saturday 27th November, Bro Stephen Allan was installed into the chair of King Solomon, in what was an impressive ceremony conducted by the Installing Masters for the occasion - Bro Douglas Junner PM, No.307 and Bro James Renfrew PM, No.307 (and RWM of Lodge Randolph No.1434).

All in attendance cannot fail to have been impressed by the high standard of work presented by these experienced Brethren.

Opened: 3-00pm Lodge Closed: 5-25pm Attendance: 116

Well, what a day we had on Saturday the 20th... A day that will live within a lot of people's memories for a long long, time. And, not just for those within the Craft.

Yes, we came to celebrate the centenary of our Temple here in Cochrane Street, Barrhead and It could have been a quiet, dignified affair... As I say, it could have been that... But, every so often Lodge Union & Crown No.307 dusts itself down, puffs out its collective chest and says to the people of Barrhead and beyond "We're here, we're proud to be Mason's and we're here to stay". Just as they did 100 years ago members of the Pipe band filled Cochrane Street and beyond with their music and Masons from Grand Lodge, Provincial Grand Lodge, Union and Crown as well as many sister Lodges marched through the streets in full Regalia to the Bourock Church to give thanks

On our return to the Temple at Cochrane Street we found ourselves in the most un-masonic tradition of having run ahead of schedule and such was the organisation that the brethren were soon seated either in the Temple or in the downstairs lounge where a close-circuit feed was also showing the ceremony.

The ceremony of rededication was then carried out by the Grand Master Mason and his Office Bearers in what was a very fine and dignified ceremony.

Our thanks also go to our own Provincial Grand Master, Bro. David Reid for allowing the use of the Provinces ceremonial vessels.
